

The Fourth World Happiness Forum for and by High School Students in Echizen

～ An initiative to create a sustainable society as conceived by high school students from around the world ～

■ Takefu Higashi Senior High School has set up an international conference of high school students, which we envision as a high school version of Davos Forum. We aim to further deepen our educational activities in international exchange and cross-cultural understanding, which is one of our school's strengths. We are confident that by discussing various practices related to activities that lead to the creation of local communities and local environmental conservation activities, high school students from around the world will understand the significance of their own practices and open up new perspectives for the future.

■ In the previous year high school students were able to attend in-person or online, and 70 people from three countries, mostly online, participated. Last year, Takefu Higashi Senior High School transitioned to a new department named "Interdisciplinary Frontier Department", which is a novel department in Japan. As a central event of this new department, we would like to hold an international conference to discuss the views of many more high school students.
